THOMPSON'S PATENT TRUSS.—Notwithstanding the variety of this important instrument already before the public, the proprietors of a new invention are desirous of offering another, which they do with confidence, after the numerous proofs they have received of its decided superiority over every kind of Truss heretofore in use—it is constructed on strictly philosophical principles, and so perfectly adapted to the anatomy of the part, that no injury can possibly result from its continued use—on the contrary, the Truss which is now offered, will absolutely cure a large proportion of recent cases. Certificates to this effect can be exhibited, and to convince the patient of the agreeableness and ease with which it can be worn, six days will be allowed to every one who buys the instrument, to try it, after which he may return it, and receive his money, if not fully satisfied.

Persons residing at a distance, can be warranted a fit, by sending their measure round, and describing as nearly as possible the seat of their complaint.

POETRY.

TO A CHILD TWO YEARS OF AGE.

BY N. P. WILLIS.

Bright be the skies that cover thee,
Child of the sunny brow—
Bright as the dream flung over thee
By all that meets thee now.
Thy heart is beating joyously,
Thy voice is like a bird's,
And sweetly breaks the melody
Of thy imperfect words.
I know no fount that gushes out
As gladly as thy tiny shout.

I would that thou mightst ever be
As beautiful as now—
That Time might ever leave as free
Thy yet unwritten brow—
I would life were "all poetry."
To gentle measure set,
That nought but chastened melody
Might stain thine eye of jet—
Nor one discordant note be spoken,
Till God the cunning harp hath broken.

I would—but deeper things than these
With woman's lot are wove,
Wrought of intenser sympathies,
And nerved by purer love.
By the strong spirit's discipline,
By the fierce wrong forgiven,
By all that wrings the heart of sin,
Is woman won to heaven.
"Her lot is on thee," lovely child—
God keep thy spirit undefiled!

I fear thy gentle loveliness,
Thy witching tone and air;
Thine eye's beseeching earnestness
May be to thee a snare.
The silver stars may purely shine,
The waters taintless flow—
But they who kneel at woman's shrine
Breathe on it as they bow—
Ye may fling back the gift again,
But the crushed flower will leave a stain.

What shall preserve thee, lovely child?
Keep thee as thou art now?
Bring thee, a spirit undefiled,
At God's pure throne to bow?
The world is but a broken reed,
And life grows early dim:
Who shall be near thee in thy need,
To lead thee up—to Him?
He, who himself was "undefiled;"
With Him we trust thee, lovely child!

BOSTON MORNING POST.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 15, 1837.

CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH AT SOUTHBRIDGE, MASS.

We have received the following account of a spirited celebration of the Inauguration of President VAN BUREN, by the Democrats of Southbridge and its vicinity. The morning was ushered in by a salute of artillery, and at noon there was another, after which a large party partook of a dinner. BELEG TIFFANY, Esq. presided, assisted by Larkin Ammidown, Oliver Hooker, and Gardner Watkins, as Vice Presidents. The spirit of the occasion was thoroughly democratic, as the following sentiments and toasts evince:—

1. The day we celebrate, the 4th of March—A day long to be remembered, in the annals of democracy.

2. Martin Van Buren, President of the United States—Though rejected by the United States Senate, as Minister to England, like the stone the builders rejected, the same has become the head of the corner.

3. Richard M. Johnson, Vice President of the United States—A democrat of the Jeffersonian school, his services in Congress, as well as his military career, have immortalised his name.

4. Andrew Jackson, Ex-President of the United States—His administration, like Washington's and Jefferson's, will be hailed with glory and admiration, by generations yet unborn.

5. The Heads of the State Department at Washington—Their characters as statesmen, in support of a free government, is honorable to the heads and hearts of such men, and have sustained the government the people delight to honor.

6. The Army and Navy—They are two great pillars, in support of our government—their courage and conduct, is surpassed by no other nation on earth, and are entitled to the highest considerations of Congress, and the nation.

7. Agriculture, Manufactures, and Commerce—Three great interests of our beloved country—they deserve equal protection of Congress.

8. Thomas H. Benton—The undeviating democrat of the old political school, the champion of the United States Senate, the author of the expunging resolution—his talents and character, as a statesman, compared to modern whiggery, is like a burning light to a dark day.

9. Our Country—The cradle of liberty, an asylum for the oppressed, at peace with all the world, our national debt paid, and forty millions of dollars to divide among the people.

10. United States Senate—The whig Senators of 1834, and the members of the Hartford Convention, twin brothers—posterity will judge of their acts.

11. The Bank of the United States—Our Country is rid of the hydra-headed monster, and will no longer be troubled with its branches, to poison the political atmosphere.

12. Massachusetts—Although she has wandered far from the path of rectitude, by bad management of her late rulers, to her utter disgrace, may she soon be restored to credit equal to her sister States, by electing pure democratic officers.

13. The fair sex—Not second to rulers of nations, and first in protection, man's bosom friend, and in times of prosperity and adversity, always for our happiness.

Among the volunteer toasts were the following:—

By Capt Stiles, of Thompson The principles of Democracy, as exhibited under the administration of Washington, Jefferson, and Jackson—May their march be onward and triumphant through every nation, kindred, tongue and people, and from generation to generation, until the four angels shall stand on the four corners of the world, and declare "Peace on earth, and good will to all men."

By William Haskell. The Hon Thomas H. Benton—One of the great supporters of liberty, and the first mover of the expunging resolution—may his name be recorded with the same pen that wrote those lines of justice, and be preserved till time shall be no more.

By Luke Ammidown. Gov Marcy—A democrat that New York may well be proud of, and who is destined to be soon called to a much higher station, in which he will render, by his character and talents as a statesman, essential services to his country.

By Amasa Haskell. Andrew Jackson—The country owes to him its soil defended—its homes secured—its territory enlarged—its Constitution restored—its government preserved—its union unbroken—its greatest foe laid prostrate: The Hero is immortal, and our country has the blessing.

By S. Hartwell. The constitution of man and the Constitution of the United States—Glory to the creator of the former, and blessed be the memory of the framers of the latter, which set bounds which we cannot pass.

By William Edwards. The Right of Suffrage—The dearest right of man—its free and general exercise at the last November elections sealed the destinies of whiggery for years to come.

By Peter Belknap. The Resolutions of the Senate Impeaching President Jackson—The cause has been tried by a jury of the whole people, and the verdict guilty resteth only on the accusers.

By William Morris. Martin Van Buren, President of the United States—May he be to the people like Joseph of old to his brethren.

A Volunteer—The Commonwealth of Massachusetts—May she repent of her apostacy—forsake her false notions, and become once more a supporter of sound Democratic principles.

Speaker Polk's Farewell Address to the House of Representatives:—

GENTLEMEN: The Twenty-fourth Congress has now closed its deliberations, and being about to be dissolved, I seize the moment of our separation, to return to this House, my profound acknowledgements for the many evidences I have had of your indulgent kindness, and generous confidence and support, during the period I have presided over your deliberations; but more especially do I return to you my sincere thanks for the vote you have been pleased this day to pass, approving my official conduct in the Chair. No language, gentlemen, can adequately convey the deep sense of gratitude which this testimonial of your good opinion has excited in my breast. The gratification which it has afforded is the greater, because the resolution which you have passed conveys the voluntary and deliberately expressed opinions of gentlemen, with many of whom I have been long associated here; all of whom have been the eye-witnesses of my conduct as the presiding officer of this House, and whose friendship, esteem, and confidence, I shall cherish to the latest hour of my life.

I entered upon the duties of this high station with a full sense of the responsibility which must often devolve upon me, and with the fixed purpose, if I know my own heart, so to discharge those duties, as to merit the respect and good opinion of this House, and the approbation of the country. I have had no other desire, than that the rules and parliamentary laws, by which our proceedings are regulated, should be properly expounded and correctly administered. It is due to candor to say, that the steady and unwavering support, which you have upon all occasions given me, has alone enabled me, successfully, to discharge the duties assigned me. The anxiety and solicitude, which I have often felt, and especially in seasons of great political excitement, from which our deliberations have not been exempt, to perform my duty, not only with faithfulness, but acceptably to the House, and to the country, can be known and appreciated only by him who has filled this Chair. Amidst the embarrassments and difficulties which have often surrounded me, it has given me pleasure, upon all occasions, to court the advice and correction of the House if I erred; and it is a source of the highest gratification to me to know that, upon the numerous occasions when the House has been appealed to, to affirm or reverse the official decisions which it was my duty to make, you have promptly given me your support. I am not vain enough to believe that I have passed through the many trying occasions which have occurred, in the course of our deliberations, during which many difficult, and often novel questions of parliamentary law and practice, have been suddenly presented for instantaneous decision, without having often fall n into error. If, however, I have erred, I trust it has not been on points material; I know it has not been intentional; and the approbation of my official conduct which you have this day expressed, affords the highest proof that you have generously overlooked my errors, and done more than justice to the unwearied efforts I have made to merit your good opinion, and, so far as depended on my official acts, to promote the interests of our constituents.

If gentlemen, in the course of our deliberations, as the representatives of the nation, there has been occasional excitement or feeling, growing out of political collisions, the natural offspring of honest differences of opinion, now, that we are about to separate, many of us never again to meet in this hall, or "this side the grave," may we not hope that all recollection of unpleasant incidents that are passed, may be forgotten, and that each one of us, whatever may be his future destiny, may devote himself to the advancement of the best interests of our country. In taking leave of you, gentlemen, I wish you a safe return to your families and friends, and my prayer is, that the blessings of an overruling Providence may rest upon all.

And now it only remains for me to perform the last duty assigned me, by the adjournment of this House; and accordingly, I announce that this House stands adjourned without day.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES DURING THE NIGHTS OF THURSDAY AND FRIDAY.

Mr John Q. Adams had taken up one entire week by the excitement he produced in introducing a petition purporting to come from slaves; then another entire week was taken up by Messrs Peyton and Wise, by the trial of Reuben M. Whitney, for an alleged contempt, which resulted in his discharge, and a thorough and general conviction that his persecutors have pursued him from feelings of personal malice and party rancor, and exhibited a profanity and violence, while in the discharge of their duties in the committee, without an example in the annals of Congress. After these delays had reduced the session to a couple of weeks, the appropriation bills, which must originate in the House, were partly gotten through with, and sent to the Senate, and returned with amendments. The last twenty-four hours of the session had come. The committees had prepared, with much care and labor, the bills providing for the decrepit and worn-out petitioners, who had, for twenty years, been urging their just claims on the Government. There were a hundred bills which had received two readings, and were wanting the form of a third reading. There were on the Speaker's table a multitude of bills from the Senate, which had passed to a third reading in the House, comprising the most important measures to the public, and nothing but the form of a third reading was necessary to their perfection. They had been discussed for months in the Senate, discussed and amended in the House, and were free from objection, and equally interested the whole country. In these circumstances, the civil list bill was returned from the Senate with trifling amendment; to complete it, it was necessary, by the rules of the House, to go into a Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union. When the House is in committee, there is no mode of preventing debate—every member speaks as long as he pleases; but propriety, and a sense of decorum towards the House, and duty to the country, have heretofore been found sufficient checks. No member was ever known to be so forgetful of these considerations, as to attempt the defeat of the business of a session, and best interests of the Government, by speaking the session to an end, and preventing action on matured bills. But the time has come, when recklessness, violence, and partizan phrensy, is let loose by the disaffected leaders in Congress, to gratify the rancor of mad ambition, and to put a stop to the Government. Thus, at nine of the evening, when the civil list bill was within a few minutes of passing out of the committee, and becoming a law by the sanction of the House, Mr Peyton rose in his place, and offered an amendment to appoint an agent at a salary of $3,500, to correspond with the deposite banks, making it the occasion of assailing R. M. Whitney, and the administration in general, with unrestrained abuse.

Mr Wise and Mr J. Q. Adams were by him, to aid in the debate, even during his progress every pains was taken by assaults on others, designating individuals, to raise an excitement in the House of a high and outrageous character. The attacks on Mr Muhlenberg of Pennsylvania, and others of the most respectable members of the committee, were direct and flagrant. Replies, to some extent, it was impossible to avoid. Mr Peyton kept up the debate, aided by Mr Adams in abuse of R. M. Whitney, for five hours or more, and then Mr Wise took up the discussion, and continued it until nearly six o'clock in the morning—they having consumed about nine hours! and the House, at daylight, prostrate, and incapable of further business, adjourned, after having almost unanimously rejected Mr Peyton's proposed amendment. That the speaking was against time, and to defeat the labors of a three months' session of Congress, was not concealed or denied; and the members go home, carrying with them the melancholy intelligence that two individuals have proved to Congress and the country that they are capable of stopping the wheels of Government. We state facts, and decline comment.—Globe.

Dreadful Times on the Island.—The Nantucket Inquirer of the 8th thus vividly depicts the condition of its ice-seiged fellow citizens—

"A scarcity of nearly all the necessary articles of consumption has at length come upon us The stalls in our markets have long been swept clean—our beef and pork barrels are utterly bereft—the wood wharfingers have disposed of the last catstick—there is scarcely any thing eatable or burnable to be procured even for money, that all commanding agent: the clam banks have suspended discounts, the wild fowl are exterminated, the very eels have wriggled into the value of sixpence a pound—and we are still blocked by ice, in a manner so ambiguous however, as neither to suffer navigation to move, nor men to travel on its surface. Here are 7000 mouths to be fed, and as many bodies to be warmed. Oh, for a few cargoes of food and firewood from Connecticut, Cape Cod, and all along shore!"

☞ We have been requested by a gentleman from Nantucket—since the above was in type—to say, that the Islanders are not so mighty short of grub as would naturally be inferred from the statement of the Inquirer. The beef tubs are rather low, it is true, but then flour can be bought there at two dollars less per barrel than it is bought for in Boston, and the inhabitants are fat, hearty, and jolly.

The London Court Journal, in allusion to the representation of Bulwer's Duchess de la Valliere, says "it is written with considerable care; many passages contain high dramatic poetry—writing worthy of the great reputation of the author. For the drama itself, as an acting drama, we think it somewhat feeble in subject, and therefore lacking that strength of action which enchains the attention of an audience and increases excitement stage by stage."

How to make love.—We recommend the following style, as being of the newest pattern:—'Will you undervaly yourself so much, as to overvaly me so much as to keep company with me?' The propitious answer to this is—'No undervalyment at all, sir.'"

☞ The whale fishery of Great Britain has fallen off to a great extent, within the last few years. In 1830, the number of ships fitted out by her was 142—in 1832 this number had decreased to 81—in 1835 it had dwindled to 59.

The Nantucket Inquirer is disposed to doubt the assertion made by Mr Upham, in his lecture, that the first whaling vessel sailed from Salem, and calls for dates. Down with your figures old Jerusalem.

A New State.—The legislature of Florida at Talahassee, before adjournment, passed a law directing the necessary steps for a census and application for state government.

There has not been an alarm of fire in Nantucket during the whole winter.

James Russell, Esq., of Roxbury, has been appointed by the Governor Notary Public for the County of Norfolk.

"Seamen's Journal," is the title of a new paper published by Mr Joseph S. Hart, No 167 Ann street. The first number contains a statement which we think must be entirely erroneous, from our knowledge of the party implicated. It is that Dr J. S. Bartlett attended Mr Grahams lectures to ladies, in a female dress, has avowed the fact himself, and is the author of the stories which produced the excitement lately exhibited upon the subject of these lectures! We repeat, that we feel confident this cannot be true, from our knowledge of the Doctor, who has always appeared to us to be an honorable man in his feelings, and gentlemanly in his deportment. He will, undoubtedly, vindicate his character from so gross an aspersion the moment he is apprised of its publication.

The Charitable Irish Society will celebrate their anniversary on Friday next, with more than usual ceremony. The following is the order of exercises which will commence at the Masonic Temple at 1 o'clock:—

From the Temple, the Society, with invited guests, will proceed to Concert Hall, where they will dine.

☞ We have not yet recived that "commission of the peace," which we recently claimed as a just reward, and which even the Courier admitted we richly deserve. If it be not transmitted speedily, his Excellency's bad grammar may run through all the papers, uncorrected, for any pains we will take to prevent it, in future.

Speculators look out!—Miss Tree is to play Ion this evening, and you'll not have a piece of whole flesh about ye, unless the tickets go at auction. The rush will be tremendous.

☞ We feel greatly obliged to a friend for an extract from a letter written by a gentleman in Texas; we shall publish it soon. It is very interesting.

The Baltimore Transcript says, that the driver of the mail stage from Edwardsville to Alton, (Ill.) is generally so drunk that his passengers are compelled to drive for him.

☞ The disgraceful riot at Amory Hall has been denounced in terms of severe censure by the Pensylvanian, and several other leading papers of the country.

Gen. Jackson reached Frederick on Thursday last, and the next day was to be escorted to the line of Washington county by a cavalcade of his political friends.

Intelligence from Texas and Mexico up to a late date has been received. Nothing of general importance has transpired in either country since former advices.

The Montreal Trascript, of the 14th, it was announced, was to contain the whole of the pamphlet entitled "Three Experiments of Living."

FROM FRANCE.

Paris and Havre papers to the 7th of February have been received at New York by the ship Poland.

It was very sickly at Marseilles, the deaths in one day having amounted to 33. Erysipeletic affections were the most prevalent and carried off the greatest numbers.

Marshal Clausel had arrived in Paris, and immediately had audiences of the President of Council and Minister of War.

A courier who arrived at Vienna on the 30th January, brought an account of an attempt to assassinate the Sultan, by a former janissary, under the following circumstances: The Sultan, while riding on horseback from his winter palace, a person armed with an air gun crossed his path, and fired at Mahmoud, whose life was only preserved by a sudden movement of his horse. The assassin and nine others presumed to be accomplices, were arrested, and after undergoing a summary examination, were tied up in sacks and thrown into the Bosphorus.

There is little or no news from Spain. Espartero was said to be lying at Bilboa, bed-ridden. It was also said that he was succeeded in his command by General Rodil, the government having formed a different appreciation of his conduct in Andalusia, from that formed by the public. Espartero's inactivity was looked upon by many influential persons at Madrid, as treasonable.

Portugal.—The accounts from Lisbon are to the 26th of January. The Cortes was opened by the Queen in person that day, who delivered a speech.

The London True Sun of the 3d says, the Bank of Ramsbothom & Co. of Windsor stopped payment this morning—they have been run upon since the stoppage of Medley & Son, and the above is the result. The amount of the liabilities is not known, but from the quantity of paper out in the country around, it will lead to considerable local distress.

The proceedings of Parliament possess no general interest.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Tuesday, March 14.—In the Senate, Mr Hudson from the select committee to whom was committed the bill concerning the deposite of the Surplus Revenue, reported that the several amendments of the House should be adopted in concurrence, except the one which proposes a new section, No 8. This section contains new matters and is not engraft- upon any amendment of the Senate, and consequently in the opinion of the committee cannot be entertained—not coming within the established principles of parliamentary proceedings, and this section was non-concurred, and the other amendments were adopted in concurrence.

Bills to incorporate the Lowell Gas Company; to encourage the manufacture of Beet Sugar; to incorporate the Fall River Mill Road, Rail Road and Ferry Co; to incorporate the Wrentham Carpet Co; to incorporate the Boston Silk, Dyeing and Printing Co; severally passed to be engrossed.

In the House, Mr Smith of Boston, from the committee on the subject of Alien passengers, reported a bill to amend the revised statutes, chap. 46, relating to alien passengers, which was read and ordered to a second reading.

On motion of Mr Andrew, of Salem, a motion for a reconsideration of the vote, whereby the House refused a second reading to a resolve on a petition of the Trustees of Amherst College, was taken up and the question being stated, the House refused to reconsider the same, 224 to 147.

Mr Gilbert, of Gloucester, moved a reconsideration of a vote whereby the House refused a second reading to a resolve for a further Geological Survey of the State, and also that this motion be laid upon the table. This latter motion was decided in the negative, and the House adjourned.

Municipal.—At a meeting of the Mayor and Aldermen, on Monday afternoon—

Communications from Dr. Smith stating that no case of varioloid exists on the Island—the last patient having been discharged on Sunday. Since the 27th of September last, fifty-five cases of small pox and varioloid have been under the care of Dr S. at the Island. At present there is one case of small pox at the southern part of the city which promises well.

Petition of J. Dunham and others that a new Engine may be located at South Boston, and communication from sundry inhabitants of that part of the city, stating their readiness to take charge of such an Engine if granted—referred to the Committee on the Fire Department.

Report from the committee on the Fire Department that new Engines ought to be procured to take the places of Engines Nos 10 and 11—accepted, and orders passed accordingly.

Report from the special committee on the remonstrance of Henry Williams and others against the election of David Henshaw as a member of the School Committee from Ward 5—that under the present city charter there is no remedy for the abuses complained of, and recommending that a new draft of the charter be drawn up and submitted to the next Legislature—accepted.

The Joint Committee to whom were referred the subject of the Land and Buildings belonging to the City on Leverett street, and the Report and Resolutions now on file relative to said subject, having considered the matter, report in favor of selling the Leverett street property and erecting a new jail at South Boston.

A Singular Case.—It is stated in the N. York Transcript, that Mrs Elizabeth McGuire, the wife of a respectable tradesman in New York, lately died in dreadful agony, in consequence of having taken a drought administered by a young physician of that city, Dr Joseph Hart. Mrs McGuire expired in a few hours after the medicine, was administered, her stomach, throat, tongue, being much swollen, and her neck, hands and fingers much discolored—exhibiting strong evidence of poison. The medicine administered was said by Dr Hart, to be one grain of Morphine. There was reason to believe, however, that the quantity was greater. The Coroner's jury, after a long investigation, returned a verdict that she came to her death by taking morphine—she being of a very peculiar constitution.

Accident on the Worcester Railroad.—We learn from a passenger, that as the morning train was coming down from Worcester to-day, the engine and tender were accidentally separated from the cars, and ran off the rails down the steep embankment near Needham, carrying the engineer with them. Most happily he received no injury, although the engine boiler burst, and the engine and tender were dashed to pieces.

Since the preceding was in type, we have learnt that the accident was occasioned by the breaking of the crank-shaft, and that the speed of the engine was only five miles an hour. No blame is attached to the engineer. The height of the embankment is fifty feet.—Trans.

Dreadful Accident at Covent Garden Theatre.—The London Herald states that as Madam Louis Irvine was making a hazardous ascent from the stage to the gallery, the rope being rather slack, caused her to miss her footing, and she was suddenly precipitated with the balance-pole to the stage. The audience rose, and simultaneously uttered a cry of horror. The curtain of course fell, and the greatest anxiety was manifested to learn the consequences. She was conveyed into the green-room, where she fainted away, and some restoratives that were appled being unsuccessful, a surgeon was sent for, but upon seeing the lady, he declared that the accident, though not so severe as was at first imagined, was yet likely to produce serious effects.

ALBANY AND TROY PACKETS.—REGULAR LINE.

Schooner VISSCHER, Owen Bearse, master.

The owners of this line, to avoid detention by head winds and shoal water, in the narrow and shoal part of the river near Albany, have purchased (to be used by this line) the Steam Boat "WADSWORTH," as a tow boat and lighter, which, with the lighter Grampus, of ninety tons, built the last season expressly for this line, they think will prevent the delay hitherto experienced at that place, and insure punctuality and dispatch. Merchandise by this line, destined to places on the northern, western or Ohio Canals, northern and western Lakes, &c. &c. &c. will be forwarded by the Agents without delay.

These packets will sail regularly on Wednesday and Saturday of each week, from opposite No 15 Long whf, north side, Boston, and from the piers at Albany and Troy.
